

 Q: What was the name of the Apollo 11 lunar module that carried Neil Armstrong and Buzz Aldrin to the moon on July 20, 1969? A: Eagle.	 Q: What international organization was founded in 1960 in Baghdad, Iraq? A: OPEC.
 Q: What psychedelic decoration was invented by British inventor Edward Craven Walker in 1963? A: The lava lamp.	 Q: How many seasons did the original Star Trek television series last: three, five, seven, or nine? A: Just three!
 Q: What was the better-known name of the President's Commission on the Assassination of President Kennedy? A: The Warren Commission.	 Q: The Green Bay Packers defeated what team in the first Super Bowl in 1967? A: The Kansas City Chiefs.
 Q: What hugely popular 60s toy came out of attempts to invent a synthetic rubber during World War II? A: Silly Putty.	 Q: Rachel Carson's 1962 book Silent Spring dealt with what environmental hazard? A: DDT.
 Q: What movie subgenre was pioneered by filmmaker Sergio Leone? A: Spaghetti Westerns.	 Q: What 1962 dance craze originated with James Brown and was later referenced in songs by Dee Dee Sharp and others? A: The Mashed Potato.
 Q: In 1969, ARPANET became the forerunner of what system that is ever-present today? A: The Internet	 Q: What was the name of the 1968 surprise attack by North Vietnamese forces that marked a turning point in the Vietnam War? A: The Tet Offensive.
 Q: What term was used to describe the overwhelming popularity of UK bands like the Beatles and Rolling Stones in 1960s America? A: The British Invasion.	 Q: Which of these artists did not perform at Woodstock in 1969: Janis Joplin, Bob Dylan, Joan Baez, or Jimi Hendrix? A: Bob Dylan.
 Q: Who set the NBA single-game scoring record with an astonishing 100 points in 1962? A: Wilt Chamberlain.	 Q: How many days did the Cuban Missile Crisis of 1962 last: 10, 13, 17, or 21? A: 13.
 Q: What classic 1960 novel was written by Harper Lee? A: To Kill a Mockingbird.	 Q: What was the famous nickname of fashion icon Lesley Lawson? A: Twiggy.
 Q: What television show established Goldie Hawn as an "It" girl of the 1960s? A: Rowan & Martin's Laugh-In.	 Q: What counterculture icon popularized the phrase "Turn on, tune in, drop out."? A: Timothy Leary.
 Q: What classic 1967 film prominently featured the music of Simon & Garfunkel? A: The Graduate.	 Q: In the late 60s, the Spahn Movie Ranch was the home of what notorious group of people? A: The Manson Family.
 Q: What Nancy Sinatra tune helped popularize go-go boots? A: These Boots Are Made for Walkin.	 Q: Enovid and Lyndiol were early examples of what transformational product? A: The birth control pill.
 Q: In what American city did the so-called "Summer of Love" take place in 1967? A: San Francisco.	 Q: What gospel singer famously shouted "Tell them about the dream, Martin!" at the March on Washington in 1963? A: Mahalia Jackson.